THE OLD WAILUKU INN AT ULUPONO

Located in the main part of town, close to the airport the Old Wailuku Inn has been around since 1997 and offers ten guest rooms that range between $165-195 a night and include a full breakfast each morning.
Native-born Janice and Tom Fairbanks run the bed and breakfast and are locals, which is a big plus in my books. They really do make the place as they are calm, relaxed but very helpful. They call the decor 1930s/1940s Hawaiiana and it's very kitchy.

I haven't stayed in a lot of smaller inns but I really liked the small touches like the Hawaiian quilt, wifi, iron, Aveda toiletries (score) and a really homey feeling. The beds are very soft with very high quality linen.

The only downside is that there is no full length mirror in the rooms but in the hall way, but frankly I'd rather have Aveda than a mirror.

The breakfasts are gigantic and delicious with coffee, tea, fresh fruit juice, a fruit salad to begin with and the breakfast rotates from day to day. You will not be hungry until lunch, I can promise you that.
